

David continued

David has been awarded three Masters Degrees, the latest being in People and Organisational Development. He has worked across private, voluntary and statutory sectors and has been in leadership roles since the age of 26.

David believes in learning organisations and has sought to create an environment where staff and clients flourish together. He also believes there are no limits to what asphaleia can do or where it might go next.

"I had the pleasure of working with David whilst undertaking an MSC in People and Organisational Development (P&OD). David is an excellent leader and inspires others around him. He is articulate, highly experienced in the world of SME leadership and has an ability to build trust across his business networks. David has provided coaching and support to me over the years and has become a good friend, I would trust him to deliver any P&OD work to organisations competently and caringly." Amy Shortridge, HR professional.