

Training provider boosted with Self Assessment Report

Following several months of facilitating focus groups, surveying stakeholders and dissecting data, boost has completed an annual Self Assessment Report (SAR) on behalf of a Sussex-based training provider.

The SAR, which has been published with the Skills Funding Agency and has already been used as the basis for a successful OFSTED inspection, is now being used by boost to produce a quality improvement plan for the client.

boost's remit was to produce a report incorporating the views of staff and managers, measuring progress against previous OFSTED inspections and making objective judgements. boost organised focus groups, held practical workshops, conducted surveys and analysed quantitative data about each service to reach impartial conclusions. The client was involved at all stages to ensure they retained ownership of the findings.

Feedback from the client was very positive and they have already commissioned boost to work with them on next year's SAR.

"Using an external consultancy to help us produce our SAR has given us an objective assessment of each of our projects, and has resulted in a high quality report that fully meets SFA and OFSTED requirements" says Katerina Rodger.

She goes on to say "We now have complete confidence that our SAR will lead to a useful quality improvement plan, which will continue to improve outcomes for the young people we work with".
